

1 of 9 DOCUMENTS

The Bellingham Herald (Washington)

May 11, 2006 Thursday

WHATCOM PEOPLE

SECTION: NEIGHBORHOODS; Pg. 3CLENGTH: 247 words

Society inducts Tim Berg

Tim Berg of Bellingham was recently inducted into Sigma Iota Epsilon, an honorary society in the management department at Western Washington University's College of Business and Economics. The son of Diane Harmon of Bellingham and Tim Berg of Napa, Calif., he was among 22 members inducted into the society. All of the new members are studying general business, human resource management, international business and management.

Wade Collins and Zack Van Houten received their Boy Scout Eagle awards at a joint Court of Honor. Wade and Zack have been in the same pack and troop their entire scout careers. Zack's father, Craig Van Houten, is scoutmaster of Troop 23, of which Wade and Zack are members.

For his Eagle project, Wade, a senior at Bellingham High, organized a blood drive with Puget Sound Blood Center at First Congregational Church, registering more than 80 donors.

Zack, a senior at Squalicum High, constructed front and back porches and railings for a transitional house that was moved to the property of First Christian Church in Bellingham, where their troop meets.

At its recent annual convention in Spokane, the Northwest Association of Mothers of Twins Clubs named its 2006-07 officers, including Vicky Emmett of Bellingham, who will serve a second term as recording secretary. She also is a member of Whatcom Mothers of Multiples. The association has clubs in Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia.

LOAD-DATE: May 12, 2006LANGUAGE: ENGLISH

Copyright 2006 The Bellingham Herald (Bellingham, WA)
All Rights Reserved